Luminous Printing.

An Italian has, it is alleged, invented a luminous printing ink that renders it possible for newspapers to be read in the dark. What a luxury it will be, when one is restless at night, to be able to take up a book or newspaper and read himself into a somnolent condition, without trouble or danger attending other lights!

Luminous cards are not unusual, and the reader may not be surprised at some future time to find himself able to read his new paper at night, without other light than its brilliant pages will reflect. Stranger things than this are constantly occurring in the invention line.

An unique strike is reported from Northampton Co., Pa., of justices and constables who will not issue or serve summons in misdemeanors because the County Commissioners will not allow them the fees they demand. To All Afflicted With Cancer.

Since that loathsome disease, cancer, is on so rapid an increase in this country, the great destructiveness of the disease, and the pronounced incurability of the same, I desire to call the attention of all sufferers to a new treatment in the hands of our esteemed brother Dr. S. Brumbaugh of this city, by which he has effected some wonderful cures, and his new treatment has been pronounced a success. The doctor is a graduate of a prominent medical college, and has for a number of years given much of his attention to the study and investigation of the cause and and nature of cancer, and from his investigation has formed a new theory as to the nature of cancer and has firmly established it by all necessary proof although differing widely from the generally accepted theory by the medical profession. He has a treatment based upon his new theory which has proven itself to be as firmly substantial as theory itself, which is testified to by a number of witnesses cured by the new treatment. He utterly denounces the use of the knife and caustics, claiming that cutting or burning out a cancer is not only useless but disastrous as the appearance of the cancer is certain and its growth much more rapid and destructive. He claims there is a certain virus or cancer poison accumulated in the system which, following an external injury, produces a growth called a cancer. That this virus producing the cancer sustains it, keeps up its growth and destructability by flowing to it as its food, and the cancer will live and destroy as long as this virus, or cancer food, remains in the system; and that the only effectual treatment of the disease is to remove this virus from the system and the cancer must natdrally die from want of its nutrition; and, when dead, nature will remove it from the flesh as any other foreign body.

He accomplishes this by an external and internal remedy. The external remedy he claims is free from poison or caustics perfectly harmless to healthy flesh, can be applied anywhere upon the surface of the body without harm to any healthy tissues. This remedy is applied to the cancer to chemically destroy the virus as it flows to the cancer as its food, and the internal remedy is to cleanse the flood from all impurities, and especially of this virus, on the same principle as the external remedy, chemically. The virus, or cancer food, being destroyed and removed, the cancer dies and nature removes it, following it up with healthy granulations, healing the place occupied by the cancer as it is removed consequently never leaving a sore deeper than the skin no matter how large the cancer. The treatment is attended with but very little pain; no bleeding, and according to his theory, no returns of the cancer in the future.

I have given the theory and treatment of cancer as held by the doctor, our brother, some attention, and will say that as proof of the power of his treatment he has several cases cured here in the city, and several under treatment that can be consulted at any time in regard to their individual cases, which is certainly of more value than printed testimonials.

I give this to the readers of the EVANGELIST for the benefit of those suffering from this dreadful disease, and should it be the means of saving some sufferer from a lingering and painful death that cancer brings and brings about a cure for him, let God alone be praised. Any one wishing to correspond with the docter will certainly receive prompt attention. His address is,

SAVED FROM DEATH OR MADNESS.

John MacGreevy is the ticket agent of the New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio R. R. at Springfield, O., and as such is well known to its citizens and the travelers whom business or inclination may call to that pleasant and enterprising city. Mr. MacGreevy is a happy man, not because any great fortune has been left him nor because he sees any immediate prospect of rising to the presidency of the corporation which he faithfully serves, but because his wife has been restored to health after years of almost living death. Mrs. MacGreevy's complaint was neuralgia and her case was said by those competent to know to have been as severe as it could be without causing death. Athlophoros was the remedy which came as a God-send to Mrs. MacGreevy, giving her back health and strength. Her own account of her sufferings and cure shows how great must have been the agony she endured. She says:

"For four long years I was a victim of neuralgia. Each succeeding year it seemed to gradually grow worse with more frequent attacks. Two years ago last February I was taken with the most severe pain of all. For months I suffered the greatest agony. I was nearly frantic with the suffering and had to be held to keep me from pulling my hair out by the roots from the top of my head, where most of the pain was seated. I did not know what sleep was, except such little as I got by the use of morphine. I cannot describe my terrible agony in words. To say that I felt as if a red hot knife had been placed on my head would perhaps partly describe my pain. The strain on my nervous system was so great that it affected the nerves of my eyes and I was totally blind in both for a week. For a long time afterwards I could only see with one eye.

"I begged my people to kill me. Oh, I thought, if I could only die what sweet relief it would be. It was at this fearful stage of the disease and after medical aid seemed to be exhausted in its power to give relief that I began using Athlophoros. It was magical in its work. I felt some relief after I had taken two doses, and when I had taken a half bottle I went down stairs. In two weeks after I began using the medicine I was able to walk out, and I was never confined to my room or bed after that. I kept right on using the medicine until I had used twelve bottles. My case was such a severe one that I wanted to be sure and get the disease completely out of my system."

"Where did you first hear of Athlophoros, Mrs. MacGreevy?"

"My father," she replied, "picked up a pamphlet at our door, in which was an account of some of the cures it had made."

"Did you get the medicine at once?"

"No; not immediately, as I was under the doctor's care at that time, but shortly afterwards. Finding that I was growing worse instead of better my father went to the druggist's and bought a bottle of Athlophoros."

"It probably saved your life, did it not?"

"It either saved my life or saved me from being a raving maniac, for I could not have endured the mental strain much longer. I never can say or do too much for the medicine. I have always said that since it did so much for me I would be perfectly willing to have my case and name stated to the public, so that others who were afflicted as I was may be induced to use Athlophoros."

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle. We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed.

results from that true contentment which indicates perfect health of body and mind. You may possess it, if you will purify and invigorate your blood with Ayer's Sarsaparilla. E. M. Howard, Newport, N. H., writes: "I suffered for years with Scrofulous humors. After using two bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, I great relief. It has entirely restored me to health." James French, Atchison, Kans., writes: "To all persons suffering from Liver Complaint, I would strongly recommend Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with a disease of the liver for nearly two years, when a friend advised me to take this medicine. It gave prompt relief, and has cured me." Mrs. H. M. Kidder, 41 Dwight st., Boston, Mass., writes: "For several years I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla in my family. I never feel safe, even without it. As a liver medicine and general purifier of the blood, it has no equal." Mrs. A. B. Allen, Winterpock, Va., writes: "My youngest child, two years of age, was taken with Bowel Complaint, which we could not cure. We tried many remedies, but he continued to grow worse, and finally became so reduced in flesh that we could only move him upon a pillow. It was suggested by one of the doctors that Scrofula might be the cause of the trouble. We procured a bottle of and commenced giving it to him. It surely worked wonders, for, in a short time, he was completely cured."

Sorts.

Esther Dow of Deerfield, N. H., who recently died, aged 88 years, had never in her life seen a railway train, and for years had not been off her farm.

Avoid, by all means, the use of calomel for bilious complaints. Ayer's Cathartic Pills, entirely vegetable, have been tested forty years, and are acknowledge to be the best remedy for torpidity of the liver, costiveness, and all derangements of the digestive apparatus.

A cherry tree stood in the way of the Southern Pacific narrow guage railway extension that is being pushed at Almaden, and the owner asked about $900 for the tree. Experts were appointed, and he then showed that it had for years yielded him crops each of which sold for sums equivalent to the interest on the amount named. They finally agreed to award him $600. and the tree had to go.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla operates radically upon and through the blood, and is a safe and absolute cure for the various diseases, complaints, and disorders, due to debility, or to any constitutional taint or infection.

A careful appraisement of the damage of property by the cyclone at St. Cloud, Minn., makes the total $86,000. At Sauk Rapids, there were 109 buildings destroyed with their contents, worth $290,000.

Athlophoros is a sure remedy for rheumatism and neuralgia. Though it has been some time since I began its use I have not again been afflicted with the disease. It worked a perfect cure. W. E. Hutchinson, 19 South Shafer street, Springfield, O.

It is said that the spray of the great Yellowstone falls in the National Park built up at its foot a mountain of ice, scarcely yet affected by the spring warmth, and almost as high as the fall itself, which in midwinter was magnificent in form and color.

An Atlanta cow fell into a deep well on Sunday, and her owner was unable to hoist her out, so he brought many loads of shavings from a neighboring planing mill and dumped them into the well. As fast as they fell the cow trampled them under her feet, and thus she came to the surface and walked away.
